CHAPTER IX.

SOCIAL IMPROVEMENT.

"Go fix some weighty truth ;
Chain down some passion ; do some generous good ;
Teach ignorance to see, or grief to smile ;
Correct thy friend ; befriend thy greatest foe."

As in the material world, without light there can be no shade to contrast with it, and as no poison exists without its opposite in the form of an antidote, so it is in the mental world, there is not a moral evil or poison, however deadly, but has its antidote in the spirit. Our Saviour suffered in, and left, the material world, in order that He might restore to us the use of our spiritual nature. He said, "I go to send the Comforter unto you, that He may teach you all things." This spirit was promised without limitation, or reservation of any kind, to all who loved God, and

Art thou dejected?
Is thy mind o'ercast?
To chase thy gloom,
Go fix some weighty truth;
Chain down some passion; do some generous good;
Teach Ignorance to see, or Grief to smile;
Correct thy friend; befriend thy greatest foe;
Be just in all things; make amends
For follies past, and, with warm heart,
Forgive, and be forgiven. Let work not words
Thy virtue prove. Go act as well as prate,
And then thy counsels will be strong,
Thy reprimands avail. —ANON

THE province of the historian is to gather the threads of the past ere they elude forever his grasp and weave them into a harmonious web to which the art preservative may give immortality. Therefore he who would rescue from fast gathering oblivion the deeds of a community and send them on to futurity in an imperishable record should deliver a plain unvarnished tale.
